

Down syndrome – An introduction
Monday the 19th of November 2018
9.15am to 12.15

The course provides a summary of the needs of pupils with Down syndrome and key issues in their education.

Please attend if you are new to Down syndrome and want a good introduction to the needs of pupils and how to meet those needs in the early years and school context.

We will summarise the specific learning approach of pupils who have Down syndrome and focus on teaching methods that are appropriate for their specific needs. We will cover practical ideas and present a good background by the end of the morning.

The training is suitable for Heads of Inclusion, SENCOs, class teachers, TAs and LSAs. Parents are also welcome to attend.

Outline/Objectives:

- Suitable across key stages
- Information about pupil's needs and how to support them
- Specific advice about teaching methods
- Includes emphasis on working with parents
